REVOLUTION OF 1905 IN RUSSIA

The Revolution of 1905 in Russia -

1. Food shortages in the cities
2. Protest march in Saint Petersburg in Jan. 1905 - troops open fire = "Bloody Sunday"
3. Strikes, protests, uprisings break out across Russia
4. A nationwide strike is begun in October - the Tsar gives in
5. The October Manifesto - Tsar Nicholas II agrees to create a liberal constitutional monarchy
 - A. civil liberties
 - B. creation of a national parliament - the Duma
 - C. elections and voting rights

Outcome of the Revolution of 1905 -

1. It looks like Russia is now a liberal constitutional monarchy
2. It only lasts temporarily
3. Within a few years after 1905 the power of the Duma is restricted and the Tsar rules using the army and the bureaucracy

124

REVOLUTION OF 1905

- ✿ Military disaster = domestic upheaval
- ✿ Century of autocratic rule
- ✿ Massive demonstration - 200,000 unarmed
- ✿ "God Save the Tsar"
- ✿ Workers - general strike, reduction of work day, increase in wages, end to War
- ✿ Police and Cossacks open fired - 100 killed, 300 wounded = BLOODY SUNDAY
- ✿ Dress rehearsal for the Revolutions of 1917

125

ATTEMPTED REFORMS

- ✿ October Manifesto - constitution - full civil liberties, religion, speech, assembly, universal male suffrage
- ✿ Duma - consultative body, no law could be made without approval, no real power dismissed by Nicholas II
- ✿ Petrograd Soviet of Workers and Soldiers
- ✿ Peter Stolypin (1862-1911) - Peasants allowed to sell land to the mir and move to cities, property rights advanced, zemstovs strengthened
- ✿ Nicholas thwarted the attempts - Stolypin assassinated

128

129

Failure of the Duma

In 1905 Russia lost a war with Japan. This defeat caused strikes in the Russian cities, the Tsar nearly lost control. Nicholas II offered to call a Duma, or parliament, with free elections. This was accepted by the demonstrators.

When the Duma met, it began to criticise the Tsar and demanded changes. Nicholas II did not like this at all. The Duma was dismissed and new elections, controlled by the Tsar, were called.

It became clear that the Duma would be shut down if it criticised the Tsar. As long as the Tsar had control of the army, his power could not be broken.

The discontent of the Workers

Industrialisation began much later in Russia than in Western Europe. Huge iron foundries, textile factories and engineering firms were set up. Most were owned by the government or foreigners, and were located in the big cities such as St Petersburg or Moscow. By 1900 20% of Russians were workers living in cities.

Working conditions in the new industrial towns were hard. Pay was very low. Although strikes and demonstrations were illegal, they often took place. Strikers were frequently shot by the Tsar's soldiers or secret police.

'The whole day we pour out our blood and sweat. Every minute we are exposed to danger.'

Union leaflet 1898

131

The discontent of the Peasants

Russia was a rural society with over 90% of the people being poor peasants. Until 1861 the peasants had belonged to their masters, who could buy and sell them like animals. When the peasants were freed in 1861 they were given small amounts of land for which they had to pay back the government. As a result most farmers were in absolute poverty. Agriculture was in desperate need of modernisation.

In contrast, a small number of upper-class people held most of the wealth and power. This aristocracy had large town houses and country estates.

Very often the peasants do not have enough allotment land. They cannot feed themselves, clothe themselves, heat their homes, keep their tools and livestock, secure seed for sowing and lastly pay their taxes.

132

Russian failures in the First World War

In the first few months of the First World War, Russia fought better than had been expected. Russian forces attacked Germany and Austria-Hungary in 1914 and were only pushed back after fierce fighting at the battle of Tannenberg.

In 1915, Tsar Nicholas II assumed personal command of the Russian armed forces. This was a risky policy; any defeats would be blamed on him. As it turned out the Tsar was a poor commander. The Russian army lost confidence in the Tsar after a string of serious defeats. The Russian soldiers, poorly trained and equipped, lacking in basic items such as rifles and ammunition, suffered from lowering morale. Thousands of men deserted.

Without the support of the army, the Tsar's position became increasingly precarious.

The empress alexandra

- The Tsarina Alexandra, the wife of the Tsar, was the granddaughter of Queen Victoria.
- She was seen as a foreigner by the Russians and her influence on the Tsar was well known.
- She leaned heavily on Rasputin to help cure her son of his "bleeding episodes". He had hemophilia, a known royal disease caused by inbreeding.

134

Tsarevich Alexei

- Desperate to provide an heir to the throne, Alexei was born to the Romanovs after the birth of four daughters.
- Unfortunately, Alexei had hemophilia and was deathly ill.
- The Tsar, eager to save his son and please his wife, allowed Rasputin to heavily influence the care of the Tsarevich. It is unknown how he was able to help stop the child's bleeding episodes.

Rasputin and Scandal

While Tsar Nicholas II was absent commanding Russian forces during the First World War, he left the day to day running of Russia in the control of his wife Tsarina Alexandra.

Alexandra came increasingly under the influence of Gregory Rasputin, a 'holy man' who appeared to be able to heal the haemophilia of Prince Alexis, the heir to the throne.

Rasputin used his power to win effective control of the Russian government. But this aroused envy and he was murdered in 1916. Rasputin's influence undermined the prestige of the royal family, but his murder came too late to save them.

Trotsky initially supported the Menshevik Internationalists faction of the Russian Social Democratic Labour Party. He joined the Bolsheviks immediately prior to the 1917 October Revolution, and eventually became a leader within the Russian Social Democratic Labour Party (Bolsheviks). During the early days of the RSFSR and the Soviet Union, he served first as People's Commissar for Foreign Affairs and later as the founder and commander of the Red Army with the title of People's Commissar of Military and Naval Affairs. He was a major figure in the Bolshevik victory in the Russian Civil War (1918–1923). He also became one of the first members (1919–1926) of the Politburo.

The November Revolution

- Nov. 6, 1917...
- this was the ideological aspect of the rev., w/ the coup itself planned by Leon Trotsky, who had gained the confidence of the army (= the "Red Miracle")
- Lenin went on to consolidate his power in Jan. 1918 when he disbanded the Constituent Assembly (had replaced the Duma) – the Bolsheviks had not gained a majority there in late Nov. elections – Russ. dem. thus terminated → a Council of People's Commissars was created
- All private property was abolished and divided among the peasantry
- Largest industrial enterprises nationalized

- Lenin's 1st task was to get Russia out of the war so he could concentrate on internal reform...
- The Treaty of Brest-Litovsk negotiated with the Germans, giving them much Russian territory, population, and resources
- Civil War followed, 1917-1920
→ "Reds" versus "Whites"
- Complete breakdown of Russian economy and society

157

The Treaty of Brest-Litovsk 1918

To successfully impose Communist control in Russia, Lenin realised that he would have to bring Russia out of the First World War. He feared that the war might bring about an end to Communist rule.

By this time the Russian army was weakened by poor morale, desertions and a break down in discipline. It was incapable of resisting the Germans.

In March 1918 Russia signed a humiliating peace treaty with Germany. Russia lost a huge amount of land in the West. This included about one-sixth of the population (60 million people), three-quarters of its iron and coal and over a quarter of the best farmland in Russia.

The Treaty of Brest-Litovsk came at a high price for Russia, but Lenin knew he could not defeat Germany and his opponents in Russia at the same time.

The Cheka (or secret police)

In December 1917 Lenin set up a secret police force known as the Cheka. Cheka agents spied on the Russian people in factories and villages.

Anyone suspected of being anti-Communist could be arrested, tortured and executed without a trial.

When opponents tried to assassinate Lenin in 1918, he launched the Red Terror campaign against his enemies. It is said that 50,000 people were arrested and executed in this period.

The Civil War 1918-1921

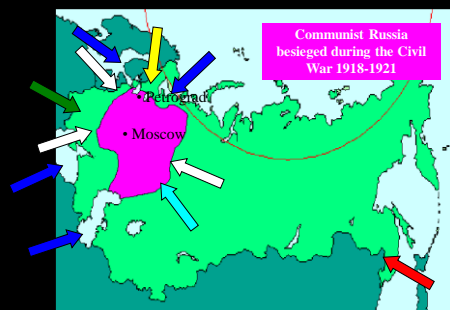

The opponents of the 'Reds', Lenin and the Communists, were known as the 'Whites'. The Whites were a mixture of aristocrats, royalists, churchmen, army officers and many others. The Whites were led by Admiral Kolchak and Generals Deniken and Wrangel.

The Whites were supported by Britain, France, Japan and the USA, countries that were alarmed at the possible spread of communism. At the same time, Lenin fought a war against Poland, a new country formed by the Treaty of Versailles in 1919.

Although in a very dangerous position, the Communists were able to win the Civil War. This was because the Whites were divided, while the Reds controlled the key cities, industrial centres and communication links. Trotsky's tough leadership of the new Red Army proved decisive in the victory over the Whites.

July 1918

After his abdication in March 1917, Tsar Nicholas II and his family were arrested and sent to Siberia.

In July 1918, the Romanovs were in Ekaterinburg, with a White army closing in on the town. Local communists were worried that the Tsar might be a rallying point for the Whites. As a result, Tsar Nicholas, his wife, their five children and four attendants were shot and bayoneted.

The Kronstadt Revolt 1921

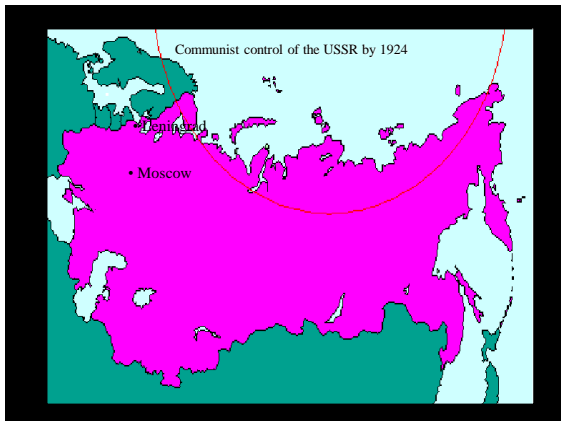

War Communism made Lenin's government very unpopular. Discontent amongst the peasants led to violence in the cities. Workers went on strike, in spite of the death penalty for striking.

The most serious opposition to Lenin's government came in March 1921. Sailors at the Kronstadt naval base near Petrograd revolted. They accused Lenin of breaking his promise to help the workers.

Lenin ordered the Red Army to put down the revolt. This caused 20,000 casualties and the leaders of the revolt were executed. However, the mutiny was a warning to Lenin that he might have to relax War Communism.

Success of the New Economic Policy 1921

To regain popular support, Lenin relaxed War Communism with the New Economic Policy (NEP). Smaller industries were returned to private ownership and peasants could sell their surplus on the open market. This was a return to capitalism and competition.

Lenin hoped that NEP would give Russia ‘a breathing space’ to get back on its feet. Most of the Communist Party saw the need for NEP, but some were against it.

On the whole NEP was a success. But it did create some problems. Some peasants, the Kulaks, became rich, while ‘Nepmen’ or businessmen made a profit in the towns. Some saw NEP as a betrayal of communism and return to the old system.

- ✳️ Alexandra Kollontai (1872-1952) – Soviet Feminist sought to educate women

183

When Lenin died in 1924, he had been very successful in imposing a communist dictatorship in Russia.

He had defeated all of his opponents and established a strong communist government. As each of the areas formerly belonging to the Tsar came under communist control, they were turned into socialist republics. In 1923 these became the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics (USSR).
